General information

Students choose to discontinue a course for a variety of reasons – both academic and personal. We recommend that you discuss your reasons for discontinuation with family, friends or University staff who may be able to assist with issues contributing to this decision, including.

- Your faculty course adviser or faculty office will be able to provide guidance or assistance with concerns regarding your current course, academic requirements or other study options. For faculty contact information, see www.monash.edu.au/faculties.
- The Hub in Health, Wellbeing and Development (HWD). Student Advisers in the Hub can assist with personal, financial, employment, accommodation, childcare and other matters that may impact on your studies. HWD counsellors also provide free and confidential support to students on all campuses. For more information visit www.hub.monash.edu.au.
- The Disability Liaison Unit (DLU). Provides assistance to students with disabilities and medical conditions. If you wish to discontinue due to medical reasons, please contact the DLU first as they may be able to provide services that will assist you in continuing your studies with minimal disruption.
- Monash Employment and Career Development. Provides students with careers counselling, information on study pathways to career goals and job search.

Any assistance provided will be non-judgmental and will respect decisions to discontinue.

Other options

- To discontinue from all units but retain your place in your course you must apply for intermission. You can obtain a form from:

www.adm.monash.edu.au/service-centre/forms

Please note that each semester has critical dates by which you can vary your enrolment without penalty. Refer to the Student Information Index, your student diary or contact your faculty for details.

www.monash.edu.au/pubs/sii/principal-dates-index.html

International students must contact their faculty to discuss applications to vary your enrolment.

Form submission

There are no specific closing dates for course discontinuation however we recommend that (where possible) you submit your form before the current semester's census date. This will ensure that you do not pay fees for units you will not complete.

Forms must be submitted to your managing faculty. You can find out which faculty manages your course from the Handbook: www.monash.edu.au/pubs/handbooks.

Students who are transferring to another course at Monash or another university should complete and submit this form after receiving an offer for their future course.
